

Jane Sheilds, Parish Councillor

I have lived in Bromham on Brookside Mobile Park Home for fifteen years. I have been secretary to the Residents Association for the past four years.

I moved down to London from my hometown in Darlington Co Durham forty-nine years ago. I have been retired for some years now. My working life was in the telecommunications industry. I worked for the Nationwide Building Society for a number of years as their network co-ordinaries, then I was employed by the treasury as their Communications Manager. I met a number of members of the government while working there, maybe this was where I started my interest in how the government and council work.

After taking the role of secretary for the Residents Association, I have been involved with the Borough Council and the park owner on several projects to improve the park. I worked with the Borough Council to have the lighting improved on Stagsden Road outside the park and I am pleased to say this was successful. After doing something outside the park it got me thinking maybe I could do more for the community. This is when the opportunity came along for me to become a member of the Parish Council. I was pleased to be accepted and now will have the opportunity, hopefully, to do more for Bromham and the community.
